Global crude oil prices jumped more than 7% on Monday as escalating Israel–Iran conflict and fears of supply disruptions via the Strait of Hormuz drove benchmarks to multi-month highs amid heightened geopolitical risk. Brickwork Ratings’s Vikrant Chaturvedi, Associate Director – Research, said such sharp spikes reflect supply concerns and risk-off positioning by markets, and could add to inflationary pressures if sustained. He added that while the crisis persists, investors should remain cautious about energy price uncertainty and its broader economic impact.
